10000 Maniacs - Arbor Day

music: Natalie Merchant/lyric: Natalie Merchant ]

wide open falsehood
the clan destine truths
rival till the end
in a series of duels pardon the drapery language I choose

Waltz in Vienna has taught me to use every tall room a fiction leather bound treasure books up to the ceiling gold spine upon spine

the guile and the treason
the faith and allegiance

the author grew fat to imagine his lead pen careening gave voice to the scheming an Aryan cabale to dethrone

to the empire unknown

the baron and his mistress dine in fine banquet hall as rebel insurgents plot in the attic space crawl

his small hand did strive to explain all the

rants and raves of a people enslaved

by the cant of the shrewdest capable men

now lie in my hand
